To create the Puerto Rico and the Caribbean Cardiovascular Center Corporation; to provide for its organization, powers and functions, and to appropriate funds.

STATEMENT OF MOTIVES

The advances in the field of health and medicine occur at such an accelerated pace and are so important for the preservation of life that it is more imperative each day for the government of each country to become interested and participate more actively in placing these advances within the reach of their respective people.

For this reason, one of the highest priorities of the Government of Puerto Rico is to endow our people with the most significant advances in the field of modern medicine.

Cardiovascular diseases are an area of medicine where scientific research and the accelerated availability of highly sophisticated equipment and treatment have propitiated real expectations for improving and preserving life.

In awareness of this situation and recognizing that every human being is entitled to the access and use of the most recent scientific achievements, our Government has brought upon itself the firm purpose of providing Puerto Rico with a Cardiovascular Center whose organization, functioning and efficiency shall be at a level of the best in the world, where not only our people, but also our American and Caribbean brothers can have access to the most advanced treatment and equipment to attend to their cardiovascular problems, and where the health care professionals and students of Puerto Rico, the Americas and the Caribbean may apply their knowledge by rendering services and teaching or extending them through studies. A Cardiovascular Center would have a measureless value as a workshop for the State's institutions of higher education committed to the training of professionals in the cardiovascular field. It would also be a basis to encourage professional excellence in the formation of health professionals in the area of cardiovascular disease, maintaining professional quality through continuing education programs in this dynamic field of modern medicine.

The Center shall also have a research function with special emphasis on those most frequently encountered cardiovascular diseases in Puerto Rico in order to develop methods, techniques and treatments to confront them more adequately.

This act has the purpose of creating a public corporation to be denominated the "Puerto Rico and the Caribbean Cardiovascular Center Corporation", for the purpose of eliminating or mitigating the ailments of cardiovascular patients as well as to promote teaching, study, research and the intellectual development of the health care professional in this highly specialized field of medicine.
